

PICTURE OF ENGLAND.

BY A FRENCH ARTIST.

The pictures of England and Englishmen drawn by FRENCHMEN are frequently spirited and striking. John Bull is getting well punished for his manifold satires and caricatures of other countries. In La France Littéraire of last month we find extracted from the Revue des Deux Mondes a satirical description of several of the leading men of the House of Commons. The writer tells a curious anecdote of Bulwer and an American, which we shall give presently. In a few words he describes the course of business in the House of Commons:

"At 3 o'clock, the Speaker enters the House. Having taken his seat, he proceeds to count the members. If 40 are present the session is opened. Ordinarily the first hours are spent in business of little importance. Bills of local bearing and private interest are discussed. Between eight and nine in the evening the benches begin to fill. The House is seldom crowded before midnight. From midnight to two in the morning the great questions are generally discussed. Englishmen have an unreasonable distrust of the lightness of their heads. They would deem it dangerous to engage in important business before their dinners had furnished them with sufficient ballast. They require to have time to meditate upon and mature their opinions and their eloquence whilst drinking their wine and their grog."

We have the following hit at the great Ex-Chancellor. "When he was only Mr. Brougham, Lord Brougham never came to the House of Commons without having emptied two or three bottles of port. It was from the bottom of his glass that he drew calmness, wisdom and discretion. But since he is in the House of Lords, which finishes its business before dinner, he is reduced to the necessity of speaking fasting. This is the reason why he is now—always intoxicated. The sobriety of his stomach causes the intemperance of his tongue and his head."

Our readers must not think harshly of Lord Brougham, because he qualifies his solids with such an enormous quantity of vinous fluid. Port has always been a favorite beverage with English statesmen, so if they would by the partiality testify their patriotism, for by adoption, the wine of Oporto is as national in England as Claret and Hock are by nativity in France and Germany. Moreover, there must be, we think, some blessed influence in the climate of England which makes wine potentia comparatively innocuous both to head and stomach, for what would here be regarded as an unsafe indulgence, is there the daily allowance of a temperate man. A defender of Coleridge cites as a proof of his exemplary temperance, the fact that he only drank half a bottle of wine per day.

But to return to our piquant Frenchman: "Mr. Henry Lytton Bulwer is a young radical, who leads an aristocratic life. He is famed for the elegance of his equipage—no one wears a more stylish coat—he speaks well and liberally. He is the author of a big work on France, wherein he discourses of manners, society, politics, and literature, with an ignorant foppishness, which only yields in buffooning naivete to the absurd book of Lady Morgan. This is a peculiarity of the English—they visit without knowledge, observation, and without study."

Brother Jonathan we think, partakes largely of this reprehensible habit, of publishing superficial comments upon the countries through which he passes.

The following is the picture drawn of the author of Pelham:

of the sad rhapsodies he has recently published under the title of "The Student."

I pardon him, however, for this last work more readily than for the following trait which was told me: A young American presented himself to Mr. Bulwer the other day, well provided with letters of introduction. "I am happy to see you," said Mr. B., but it will be difficult for me to have this honor often. I have already more acquaintances than my time permits me to cultivate, and to them I owe the hours I have to dispose of." Was not this a piece of politeness exceeding even the ordinary British affability? Nevertheless, by following the custom of his country, Mr. Bulwer would not have subjected himself to much inconvenience, for the English don't ruin themselves by hospitality. When a stranger is introduced to them, unless he be one by whom some advantage is to be gained, they give him a long heavy dinner, which, after having stuffed him well with roast beef, and filled him with port and grog one single time, they dismiss him; and if the unfortunate man survives such fare, the door of his entertainers is never opened to him again, except to foodless visits. Walter Scott, unlike Mr. Bulwer, treated those who were introduced to him with more hospitality than is customary in England."

The mention of grog looks suspicious and makes us think that our Frenchman kept rather questionable company in London. It is evident that he has not enjoyed English hospitality where it can only be fully enjoyed, and where it is most liberally dispensed—in the country. The story about Bulwer and the American, whether true or not, coincides with an account we have seen by an American writer (Brooks we believe) of his conduct to Americans.

MONTPELIER HOTEL.

HENRY Y. BARNES, would inform the public that he has opened a house of public entertainment, in the central part of the village of Montpelier, on the strict principles of Temperance: wine, strong beer, and all ardent spirit wholly excluded. Said house is pleasantly situated on State street, a few rods west of the Bank, and will be a pleasant home for the traveller, or persons in the vicinity visiting Montpelier on business. Good attendance always in readiness, and every reasonable attention paid to all who patronize the above house. Montpelier, Dec. 19, 1835. 21—

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON THE CULTURE OF SILK, adapted to the Climate and Soil of the United States. By F. G. COMSTOCK, Secretary of the Hartford County Silk Society, and Editor of the Silk Culturist. Illustrated by Engravings.

The interest in all parts of the United States in the Culture and Manufacture of Silk, manifested by the constant calls for information on the subject, has induced the publisher to have prepared a plain Practical Treatise on the Cultivation of the Mulberry and Rearing Silk Worms, adapted to the Soil and Climate of this country and to the wants of plain practical men.

The Practical Culturist in this country needs a directory adapted to the Soil on which he plants his trees, and the Climate in which he rears his worms, without reference to Soils and Climates less congenial to their growth. It has been therefore the object of the author to make a treatise omitting nothing of importance, and of a useless

STATE BOTANIC INFIRMARY.

DR. BENJAMIN THOMPSON, Proprietor of the Concord Botanic Infirmary, feeling a deep interest in the cause of suffering humanity, and feeling determined to use his utmost exertions to complete that reform in Medical practice, which has already so gloriously commenced, has opened a large establishment in Montpelier, at the House of Seth Kimball, in State Street, a few rods east of the Pavilion.

The unparalleled success that has attended his practice in New York, Boston, and Concord, in which places he has had several thousand patients under his care, (more probably than any other practitioner in the civilized world in the same time), will be a sufficient guarantee of the confidence of the intelligent citizens of Vt. Those who are acquainted with the Thompsonian System of practice from personal knowledge need no commendation of its truly wonderful virtues. To such it is the anchor of hope—the most invaluable of earthly blessings. But with those who have never had an opportunity of witnessing its health preserving and restoring influences, it is the part of common sense and discretion, candidly to examine its claims, and not (as has too often been the case) condemn the Botanic Physician, unseen and unheard. The advocates of the system seek not to hide themselves from public scrutiny, but solicit free and fair discussion, and a fair comparison of the Botanic with the Mineral practice. He who engages candidly in the investigation of the system will find its theory of disease simple, yet supported by sound reasoning—its practice based upon, and in accordance with that theory, simple yet effectual, and the success that has attended it is wonderful, beyond anything which has preceded it in the history of medicine."

The State Botanic Infirmary consists of the Public House kept by Mr. S. Kimball and the House adjoin which is intended to be connected with the tavern by an arch and to be exclusively occupied by me as an office and for the accommodation of the sick.

The Female Department is under the superintendence of a lady who was principal nurse at the Boston and Concord Infirmary; and who has had more patients under her care, and more experience in the sick room, than any other female in the Union in the same time, without ever losing a patient.

TERMS:—Two dollars and fifty cents per week for Board, and three dollars for each course of Medicine; and if only one course proves necessary, one dollar extra is charged.

No accounts will be opened. Payment must in all cases be made in advance.

A general assortment of Genuine Thompsonian Medicines, wholesale and retail. Also, Robinson's Lectures, Family Rights, Dr. Samuel Thompson's Narrative, and New Guide to Health, and Thompson's Defence of the Botanic Practice, constantly for sale at the Concord and Montpelier Infirmarys.

N. B. In a pamphlet recently published by me, it was announced, on the strength of a positive arrangement to that effect, that the Infirmary would be a few rods west of its present location; but owing to unforeseen circumstances the location was changed. This statement is made in order to explain the discrepancy between the present notice, and that published in my Pamphlet, as before mentioned.

THOMPSONIAN.

VERMONT BOTANIC INFIRMARY, AND INSANE HOSPITAL.

DR. J. WRIGHT opened his Infirmary in this village, in April last, since which he has administered medicine—not poison—to several hundred patients. Having more business than was anticipated, he has been obliged to take a larger house, and has accordingly taken the large three story building, 30 by 70, corner of Maine and Hubbard-streets, opposite Shepherd's Hotel. It is occupied exclusively for the accommodation of the sick, where he may always be found, except when visiting his patients abroad, as he is determined to devote his whole time and attention to the science of Medicine.

The Infirmary is situated in a central, airy, and pleasant part of this flourishing village; has separate apartments fitted up for gentlemen and ladies; and is, in every respect, convenient for the accommodation of the sick. The location being central, near the capital of the State, where stages are coming in from all directions, the Infirmary will be easy of access to the southern, northern, eastern, western, and central parts of Vermont, and their vicinities—Canada, New-Hampshire, New York, &c. It will be a home for the sick, the lame, and the insane, where they can be cured of all their infirmities, on the true principles of philosophy and science. Ladies, in particular, can be attended on in the Infirmary, as rooms will be fitted up expressly for that purpose—or, at their homes.

Dr. WRIGHT has been acquainted with the Thompsonian System of Medical Practice for many years; commenced his practice in this, his native state, then moved to Acton, Massachusetts, where he practiced two years within twenty-five miles of Boston, enjoying all the advantages resulting from an acquaintance with Dr. SAMUEL THOMPSON, the father of the System, and the Managers and Practitioners of the principal Infirmarys and Hospitals in the city; has gleaned all the good he could from other Systems of Medicine; and has had an extensive practice in this village and vicinity for seven months past, not losing one patient. With these advantages and qualifications, he hopes he shall continue to receive, as he is now receiving, a large share of public patronage.

The services of Dr. JOHNSON and WIFE, both experienced in attending the sick, have been engaged. Dr. Johnson will superintend the male, and Mrs. Johnson the female department. Dr. WRIGHT, himself, superintending the whole.

Vapor Baths, and Medicated Vapor Baths, in readiness at all times for the sick or well.

TERMS. Board $1.75 per week, exclusive of washing; Courses of Medicine, $2, amounting from $3.75 to $12 per week, according to the number of courses taken. Extra charges will be made for being up nights, having watchers, separate rooms and fires.

Charges for visiting patients abroad, very reasonable; and the poor, destitute of friends to assist them, will never apply for relief in vain.

The expenses of the establishment being considerable, those coming from a distance will be expected to settle their bills before leaving the Infirmary.

Advice gratis. A large stock of Medicines on hand at Boston prices.

Fever of all kinds, Numb-Palsy, Lock-Jaw, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Liver and Lung complaints, Hydrophobia, Convulsive Fits or Nervous Affections, Piles, Ulcers, Scald-Head, White Swelling, Ring Worms, Tetters, and other Cutaneous affections, Gonorrhoea, Syphilis, General Debility, Consumption, Female Weakness, And all other female complaints caused by Cold, &c. &c.

Vegetable Medicines for sale, accompanied with directions. Composition, Purgent or Stimulating, Nerve, Canker, Cough and Tooth Powders; Spice, Wine, Golden, Jundice, Physical, and Anti-Dyspeptic Bitters; Green and Brown Emetic; Hot or Rheumatic Drops, and Rheumatic Liniment; Olive, Nerve and Ich Ointments; Hair Oil and Bear's Grease; Corn, Cleansing and Healing Salve; Cancer, Strengthening and Sticking Plasters; Cough, Tooth-Ache and Asthmatic Drops; Lobelia, 1st, 2d, and 3d preparations; Peach meat, Cholera, Worm, and Liver Complaint Syrup; Mother's Friend and Female Regulator; Lotion for Itch, Salt Rheum, Scrofulous, and other bad humors and sores; Eye Water; Aromatic Snuff; Head ache; Stimulating, Physical, and Emetic Pills; Volatile Salts, or Smelling Powders, &c.

BOOKS FOR SALE. Dr. Thompson's Narrative and New Guide to Health, or Botanic Family Physician, price, $20. Dr. Robinson's Lectures, 60 cts. Quackery Exposed, 12 1-2 cts. &c.

A change of Linen is necessary in every course of Medicine.

Village of Montpelier, }

Vienna, or Dutch Pills.

THERE are but two causes of disease—Atmospheric air and aliment. The Human System, like a stream of running water, is continually wasting or changing by evaporation, perspiration, &c. and we take food to resupply such waste. The same identical particles of matter that composed our system but yesterday do not today; an entire change is effected in a period of from four to seven years.

There are but three actions of disease upon the human system; first, irritation, which is succeeded by inflammation, producing disorganization, decomposition, and death.

To eradicate disease, first produce a healthy state of the stomach.

In conformity with this doctrine, these Pills were originally prepared by the celebrated Dr. Kesser, of Vienna, as a universal Medicine, or General Restorative, by combining various effective articles, divested of all extraneous matter and inert substances; retaining nothing in their composition but pure Medicinal virtues, he succeeded. Thousands certify their efficacy in restoring the system to health, in a variety of diseases considered incurable.
